After World War II, both DGS and DBS appointed alumni as principals in the 50s and 60s. Purchased for $1420.20 in 1860, a small concrete house built on a paddy field on Bonham Road became the ‘Diocesan Native Female Training School’. In 1869, the school accepted boys and became the ‘Diocesan Home and Orphanage’. From 1878 onwards, the Diocesan Home became two separate institutions: the Diocesan Boys’ School and the Diocesan Girls’ School. Both schools aim to provide a ‘quality liberal all-round education based on Chinese virtues and Christian principles’. Through the years, the two schools shared teaching resources and collaborated regularly in extra-curricular activities, especially in music. Students of the two schools are known for their all-rounded excellence and the intense loyalty to their alma mater.

School and Leadership Culture
W hat sets leaders like Dr Symons and Mr Lowcock apart is their ability to embrace seeming paradoxes. They were able to balance their position of authority with sensitivity to the needs of the individual. They taught that freedom must be borne with great responsibility. They affirmed the value of both the individual and the collective. They commissioned the students to serve both as leaders and servants. They encouraged the students to work hard and play hard. Ultimately, through their experiences in school, these young men and women are taught to grow in maturity but never lose the purity of a childlike heart.

To this day, the two schools remain as icons of all-round excellence - living up to their Chinese name: ‘Best of the Best’.

* The title is taken from the DGS and DBS school hymns.
This book provides a detailed account of Chinese entrepreneurs, describing and explaining the phenomena of women entrepreneurship in Hong Kong. Author Priscilla Chu, Associate Professor in the department of Management at the City University of Hong Kong, examines the entrepreneur as a person, and as a member of the family, organization and society, from in-depth personal interviews.

Title: The Making of Women Entrepreneurs in Hong Kong
Editor: Priscilla Chu
Publisher: Hong Kong University Press
Year: 2004

Winnie Tang is CEO of ESRI China (HK) Limited and is recognized as a leader of the Asian GIS industry. She is one of the authors of the book "Connecting Our World - GIS Web Service". GIS Web services are a natural progression in the development of GIS, continuing a long tradition of leveraging new computer technologies to improve the way spatial data can be managed, accessed and analysed by a wide audience.

Title: Connecting Our World - GIS Web Service
Editor: Winnie Tang
Publisher: ESRI Press
Year: 2003

The major difficulties facing real estate development professionals in Hong Kong involve the use and development intensity of land, the complicated procedures and the mass of building laws. This book is a guide to tackling these difficulties. A number of problems based on real-life scenarios are offered.

Title: Change in Use of Land - A Practical Guide to Development in Hong Kong
Editor: Lawrence Lai, Daniel Ho
Publisher: Hong Kong University Press
Year: 2004

Winnie Tang is CEO of ESRI China (HK) Limited and is recognized as a leader of the Asian GIS industry. She is one of the authors of the book "Connecting Our World - GIS Web Service". GIS Web services are a natural progression in the development of GIS, continuing a long tradition of leveraging new computer technologies to improve the way spatial data can be managed, accessed and analysed by a wide audience.

Title: Connecting Our World - GIS Web Service
Editor: Winnie Tang
Publisher: ESRI Press
Year: 2003

The major difficulties facing real estate development professionals in Hong Kong involve the use and development intensity of land, the complicated procedures and the mass of building laws. This book is a guide to tackling these difficulties. A number of problems based on real-life scenarios are offered.

Title: Change in Use of Land - A Practical Guide to Development in Hong Kong
Editor: Lawrence Lai, Daniel Ho
Publisher: Hong Kong University Press
Year: 2004

The Making of Women Entrepreneurs in Hong Kong
Editor: Priscilla Chu
Publisher: Hong Kong University Press
Year: 2004

Connecting Our World - GIS Web Service
Editor: Winnie Tang
Publisher: ESRI Press
Year: 2003
Winnie Tang is CEO of ESRI China (HK) Limited and is recognized as a leader of the Asian GIS industry. She is one of the authors of the book "Connecting Our World - GIS Web Service." GIS Web services are a natural progression in the development of GIS, continuing a long tradition of leveraging new computer technologies to improve the way spatial data can be managed, accessed, and analysed by a wide audience.

Title: Connecting Our World - GIS Web Service
Editor: Winnie Tang
Publisher: ESRI Press
Year: 2003

"The Concubine's Daughter" is a snapshot of a bygone era, depicting life in the British colony of Hong Kong in the fifties and sixties. It is the story of a beautiful, intelligent, and liberated lady, from the time she is a wide-eyed nineteen year-old studying English Literature at the University of Hong Kong, sharing girlish secrets with her two best friends, to her becoming a student at the University, to just after the birth of her first child, when she leaves Hong Kong with her husband and young son for the US, frightened in part by the riots inspired by the Cultural Revolution in mainland China. After twenty years in the US she returns to Hong Kong, just ten years before China is to regain sovereignty over the colony. The lady is keenly aware of the love of her family and certain aspects of Western culture and her Chinese heritage...

Title: The Concubine's Daughter
Editor: Helen Kwok
Publisher: 1st Books Library
Year: 2003

This book provides a detailed account of Chinese entrepreneurs, describing and explaining the phenomena of women entrepreneurship in Hong Kong. Author Priscilla Chu, Associate Professor in the department of Management at the City University of Hong Kong, examines the entrepreneur as a person, and as a member of the family, organization and society, from in-depth personal interviews.

Title: The Making of Women Entrepreneurs in Hong Kong
Editor: Priscilla Chu
Publisher: Hong Kong University Press
Year: 2004

The major difficulties facing real estate development professionals in Hong Kong involve the use and development intensity of land, the complicated procedures and the mass of building laws. This book is a guide to tackling these difficulties. A number of problems based on real-life scenarios are offered.

Title: Change in Use of Land - A Practical Guide to Development in Hong Kong
Editor: Lawrence Lai, Daniel Ho
Publisher: Hong Kong University Press
Year: 2004

The book "Connecting Our World - GIS Web Service" explores the evolution of GIS technology and its impact on real estate development. It highlights the challenges faced by professionals in Hong Kong, such as land use and development intensity, building laws, and complicated procedures. The book aims to provide practical solutions and strategies for mitigating these difficulties, drawing from real-life scenarios.

Title: Change in Use of Land - A Practical Guide to Development in Hong Kong
Editor: Lawrence Lai, Daniel Ho
Publisher: Hong Kong University Press
Year: 2004

The book "Connecting Our World - GIS Web Service" is a valuable resource for professionals in the real estate development industry. It offers practical guidance on addressing the major difficulties they face, including land use, development intensity, and building laws. The book is based on real-life scenarios, providing a comprehensive guide to navigating these challenges.